

WARD POLITICS.

HOW THE DIRTY POOL WAS AGITATED IN THE FOURTH.

Why R. N. Walton Was Not Nominated for Councilman—A Forged Card and a Striking Darky Worked Off on Candidate Bryson.

There is a row going on in the Fourth Ward which is liable to sink the local Democratic camp in a fog of disgrace, from which it will not recover for years.

Before the late City Democratic Convention assembled, R. N. Walton, the architect and builder, was out for Councilman, and to all appearances he seemed in a fair way to get the nomination. But at the last moment he was knocked clean out of the ring, on the ground that he is a heavy-weight prohibitionist. Now he is up in arms against the Democratic party, and last evening he called at the Times office and made the following statement:

"Just before the convention met T. McCarthy called on me and said he represented the head men of the Democratic party and that he had called for the purpose of learning whether or not I intended to run for Councilman in the Fourth Ward. I told him that my friends had been after me and I had made up my mind to run if I could get the nomination at the hands of the Democratic party. I also told him that I was confident that I would get the full support of the Citizens' party."

"He then questioned me closely on the liquor question and told me that he would have to be sold for the saloon men. I could not get the nomination unless I would agree to give them a fair show. He said he knew that Mr. Miles and his party would wipe every son of a bitch out of town if they got into power, and for that reason no Democrat could run unless he promised to befriend them. I told him that I would give them the same chance that I would give any other business man, and thought that would settle the matter, but he said that if I ran I would have to buy up votes, and that the party would require me to put up $500 for that purpose, as there was another good man in the ward who was willing to put up that amount."

"During the conversation he told me that he was confident that he would be Captain of Police in case the Democrats won, and that was the reason why he took such an interest in the matter. As soon as he made this statement I told him that if he and his friends were to be benefited in that way, it was nothing but right that they should pay the expenses of the canvass for the councilmen. I asked him how I was to forward the money, and he said I put it up for buying votes, and he said I would have to do it to hold my hand behind me. I told him that I was not a robber, but that if he assisted me to get the nomination I would stand by him as he stood by him for Captain of Police. He said he thought I could be elected, as the saloon men had put up $12,000 to buy votes against the long-haired cranks, and he said he would be for me."

"I was positive up to the time of convention that I would get the nomination, when some of my friends came to me and told me that McCarthy was working against me. I could hardly believe it, but I went and looked him up and asked him if it was true. He said yes, and I asked him why he had changed his mind in a few hours. He said he and his friends had been in the matter over and over and had come to the conclusion that I was not the right kind of a man. They were confident that I was not sound on the liquor question."

"I then withdrew from the fight, although my friends are very anxious to have me run on the Independent ticket."

"No," McCarthy was not the only one who approached me on the same subject. Mr. Gould and Col. White also talked to me, and I am satisfied that the Democrats of the Fourth Ward are standing in with the saloon men."

Mr. Walton is an old prohibitionist. A few years ago he ran in Alameda county for the Assembly on the prohibition ticket, and he is a prominent member of the Illinois Band, which meets nightly under the Nadeau House. McCarthy was on the police force under Cuddy, and acted as city detective for a while. He is now a member of the Democratic City Central Committee.

A NEGRO FOOTPAD.

Arrested for Trying to Rob an Old German.

Last evening a negro named James Given was arrested at No. 13 Sepulveda street by Detective Metzler, charged with having assaulted and attempted to rob an old man named B. H. Kerriek, from Anaheim, Thursday night. The facts in the case are as follows: Kerriek went into the saloon at No. 44 North Alameda street, near Turner, between 7 and 8 o'clock, to get a drink and some lunch. There were two or three negroes in the place at the time playing cards and drinking, and one of them approached the old man and asked him to join them and take a drink. He declined, saying that he had money to pay for his own drinks, and when asked how much he had, replied that he had some coin and checks to the value of $500. Shortly after he was toward the left, a saloon given had gone but a short distance when some one slipped up behind him and struck him on the head with a sandbag, falling him to the ground, when the man jumped on him and tried to go through his pockets. The old man was not stunned, and raised such an outcry that the thief became alarmed and ran, but not before he had been seen by his intended victim sufficiently well to identify him. When Given was arrested he denied all knowledge of the occurrence, but he was traced along the route over which he would have got $700. Given was afterward identified by five people, including old man Kerriek, who wanted to get at him when he was brought out. Given is a very tough dandy, and is on the detectives' black list for some months.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Officer Wright After a Couple of Heartless Men.

Officer Wright yesterday swore out a warrant against Daniel Shea for cruelty to animals. He was arrested during the afternoon, and gave bonds for his appearance before Justice Austin, his trial being set for 8 o'clock this afternoon. The case is a peculiarly aggravated one, and will doubtless go hard with him if the facts, as alleged, can be substantiated.

On Thursday it was reported to Mr. Wright that an old horse belonging to Shea had been turned out on the streets to die. The officer then hunted the animal up and got Shea's boy to take him home, put him in the stable and get feed for him. That evening he went to see Shea at his residence, on Myers street, and when spoken to about the matter, said that the horse belonged to him, and he thought he had a right to do as he pleased with his own property, and that if the Humane Society did not think that he gave him enough feed they had better furnish more. This was all the satisfaction the officer could get, and he left after warning Shea to take care of the animal.

Yesterday morning a gentleman called at the police station and stated that the same horse was again out on the streets; that it was down and could not get up. The officer again went down, and found that the animal had died. The neighbors say that the horse has been out on the streets literally starving for the past week or more. Officer Wright is of the opinion that the animal died of starvation and is positive that he can make the case stick.

Officer Wright also swore out another warrant yesterday against a Mr. Blacklaw, a resident of Centinela ranch, on the charge of cruelty to his horse, leaving him standing on the streets in the rain and mud some days past, from 12 m. to about 8 p.m. Blacklaw will be arrested tomorrow.

The Pink Bazar.

The ladies of the Band of Hope opened their bazar in Opera-house Hall yesterday. There were but few visitors during the day, but in the evening the little hall was comfortably filled, and a jolly time was engaged in.

A short programme was carried out, and the children who took part showed that they had been well trained.

The booths are loaded down with fancy work, which was furnished by the ladies of the band. The bazar will be kept open until this evening at 5 o'clock.

The Illinoisans.

The next meeting and entertainment of the Illinois Association will be held this evening at Masonic Hall, No. 39 South Spring street, which has been engaged for future entertainments of the organization. MR. CLEVELAND is reported to be very busy at work on his message, but Dan Lamont is busier.

ONLY three months more; and then the country may look for a better postal service, among other national blessings.

If the entire population of the frozen East could be set down in the midst of these golden days of Southern California, the whole air would bristle with exclamation points.

THE St. Louis Globe-Democrat has discovered him. It says:

"The man who heard Gen. Harrison make a speech 30 years ago, and said 'That man will be President some day,' has begun to appear in different parts of the country—usually with a petition for a postoffice under his arm."

Statesmen of this breed are abroad in the land like locusts in Egypt.

THE Hon. William Williams—more accurately known as "Uncle Billy"—will, we learn, be an applicant for the mission to the Hawaiian Islands under the administration of President Harrison. Mr. Williams is capable, experienced, and eminently deserving. He is a life-long Republican, and a gentleman of character and national reputation. In the late campaign he did hard and most effective work in California for the Republican cause. He is master of the protection question, and handled it in his speeches with marvelous force and persuasion, making scores of votes wherever he spoke. In the nature of the case, he will be "taken care of" by the new Administration. When he gets over to Honolulu he can expatriate to the scantily-dressed Kanakas on the beauties of the American protective system, which stimulates the consumption of American flour, American beef, American pork, and American cabbage, making a market for the American farmer. [Applause.]

THAT obscure and unreliable news-gathering association known as the "California Associated Press," having sent out a dispatch from the East, touching the subject of cabinet-making, derogatory not only to the Hon. M. M. Estee, but actually to every other public man of California on the Republican side, the Republican State Central Committee took prompt notice of the matter by passing resolutions on the subject, which will be found printed in another place. Disclaiming all intention to take a hand in the work of forming Mr. Harrison's cabinet, they nevertheless deemed it a duty to set Mr. Estee right as to the charges made in the New York dispatch, which were to the effect that he is so compromised and trampled "by his connection with railroads" as to take him out of the line of selection for Cabinet material, etc. It will be eminently appropriate for a Cabinet officer to be taken from this coast, and the State Committee has done well to promptly correct the erroneous statements telegraphed to the country, which were calculated and designed to reflect unfairly upon all the available men on this side of the country.

Action of the Citizens' Meeting.

Supporters of the Citizens' Reform Movement met in very respectable numbers at Hazard's Pavilion, last night, with Dr. J. P. Widney in the chair, and after earnest speeches upon pending municipal matters by several prominent gentlemen, the chairman announced the action of the Committee on Nominations, and read the names on the ticket made up by that committee. With few exceptions, the Republican nominees were endorsed. No Democratic nominee received the indorsement of the meeting.

The Citizens' Reform ticket, as far as made up, is as follows:

For Mayor, D. E. Miles; City Attorney, Charles McFarland; Assessor, W. R. Halzlip (new nomination—A Democrat); Treasurer, M. D. Johnson; Tax Collector (no nomination); Board of Education, A. E. Pomeroy and Capt. E. P. Johnson.

For Councilmen, the following Republican nominees were indorsed: In the First Ward, C. N. Earl and George O. Ford; in the Second, Maj. J. M. Frew; in the Third, J. H. Book; in the Fourth, Fred J. Teale and James T. Brown, and in the Fifth, A. C. Shafer.

This embraces the entire list, with one exception, that of Barnes, the Republican nominee in the Second, whom the reformers refused to indorse. It was announced that nominations to fill the two vacancies on the ticket will be made today.

As the reformers now have a separate ticket, their exact voting strength can be ascertained after the ballots shall have been counted.

The action of the meeting is significant, and will doubtless have an important influence upon the result of the election next Monday. It shows where the instincts of the friends of reform lead them, namely, in the direction of the Republican camp.

The leaders of the Citizens' Reform Movement claim that it will poll two thousand votes in the city. If that is even approximately true, they will decide the election.

They Do Things Better in British Columbia.

Justice usually travels with leaden heel, at least in republican America, though in the British possessions the blind goddess with the scant apparel and a pair of scales appears to get over the ground with tolerable celerity.

The courts of Victoria, B. C., seem to understand the science of getting at the collar of a scoundrel better than do some United States courts. There is that smooth and smiling rogue, G. Hamilton Griffin, for instance, whom the courts of Los Angeles did not seem able to cope with; at least, he got away before he could be brought to justice. Not so with the Victoria judicial authorities, who yesterday convicted the notorious oily scamp, sentencing him to five years' penal servitude for the crime of threatening the life of a member of the Government. "Smoothy No. 2" will now have to exchange his gorgeous dressing-gown, his "stunning" cravat, his two-story plug hat with the indispensable crape thereon, his waxed mustache and his elegant smirky for the more appropriate uniform of a British prisoner. Like his prototype, Smoothy No. 1, his occupation as a real-estate fakir is gone for the time being, and he will now have to do some honest work for the State.

It is well. We have great respect for the British Columbia court which did that prompt and effective piece of judicial work. The "avenging Nemesis" (whom we salute) who has been successfully camping on the trail of "Smoothy No. 2," could get a job in Los Angeles, if she would come down here. A fellow who would "do up" a confiding partner in a real-estate deal to the tune of more than $10,000—and "smile and smile, and be a villain still"—would be prime game for the tireless pursuer.

"Peace Hath Her Victories."

The grandest victories the world ever saw are the victories of peace, victories for which men fight, not with sword and cannon, but with the stronger instruments of unyielding principles as embodied in the ballot. Just so long as the ballot represents right and justice and human freedom the country is safe. We may be assailed by anarchists and demagogues, but if the voice of the majority is for good government the body politic is in no danger from the bombs and the dynamite of a few crazed political fanatics, or from the machinations of sectional animosity. Our country under a Republican administration will enter upon a new era of prosperity; and with it will come a renewed sense of security. The new Administration will not pander to the prejudices of any section, but it will be just, impartial, yet firm in its exactions of obedience to law, and determined in its protection of every citizen in the rights accorded him by the Constitution, be he white or black. The American flag must be powerful enough to protect the humblest subject over whom it waves, and the mission of the Republican party will not be fulfilled until the black man of the South has as complete immunity from political outrage as his wealthy and aristocratic white neighbor. The Republican doctrine is "A government of the people, and for the people and by the people."

A COLORADO PAPER, the Denver Times, has these rules for correspondents, which, though not new or novel, are plain and good:

Communications should be brief in order to insure publication in full. The paper will reserve the right to endorse, criticize or reject any and all communications. It requests its correspondents to observe three rules: First, be sure you have something to say; second, say it as briefly as possible; third, when you have said it, stop. All communications must be signed with the writer's correct name. No communication under a non de plume will be published.

The rule requiring all communications to be signed with the writer's correct name is a more rigid one than most journals enforce; but it is a healthy one. It prevents underhand work, discourages covert "cussedness," and promotes candor, truth and manliness. We advise all correspondents to sign their real names for publication, and leave it to the editor to publish them or not, as he may in his judgment decide.

A LITTLE PHOENIX

Growing from a Question of Police Authority.

There came very near being a serious difficulty in the detective's office, at the City Prison, last night, and had it not been for the interference of Detectives Emil Harris and Glass, somebody would have got hurt. The detectives were in the office when Capt. Loomis came in, and a discussion arose as to the present status of affairs. The talk soon assumed a personal nature, and Detective Metzler, who was present, accused Loomis of having undermined every man who had been in the department since he had been the cause of all the trouble in the department. Just accusation aroused the Captain's ire, and he began to express his opinion in rather forcible language of the prevailing state of things, as well as how they had been conducted in the past. He was sitting down at the time, but was somewhat excited, and finally made some remarks which he believed to be true at him, and also kicked at him. He missed Loomis, and before any further damage could be done, Harris and Glass stepped in between them, and put a stop to hostilities, and an effort was made to smooth the whole thing over, which was partially successful, as 10 minutes after the occurrence everything was going along as usual, and no one was disposed to give any information about the affair.

The trouble probably originated about a conflict of authority growing out of the peculiar position of Messrs. Harris and Metzler. In the first place, Mr. Harris claims by virtue of the agreement entered into by Mayor Workman, Mr. Harris is the chief of the detective force, and he is subordinate to Loomis. Metzler, while appointed as a police officer, and is so carried in the rolls, claims that he is only subject to Harris's orders, as he believes that he has no more legal right to order Metzler than Metzler has to order Harris. On the other hand, there is but one head to the department, and that is Chief Loomis, and ranks any one else about the office, which has never been recognized as it should be. It is probable that this little occurrence will have at least one good effect, as the commission will probably take some notice of the affair and give such instructions as will definitely settle the matter for once and all.

Scared Tenants.

Yesterday some of the tenants were busy engaged in moving out of the Phillips block. The general opinion now is that the building will have to be strengthened in some way. The Santa Fé people have some way of their minds to rent in the building, unless a committee should be appointed by the Council and a report is made condemning the building, as it is believed by the Santa Fé people that the building can be strengthened sufficiently to make it safe, and if this can be done they will not give up their lease.

HON. M. M. ESTEE.

The Republican State Committee Speaks in His Defense.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] At a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee of the State of California, held at its rooms, 419 California street, on the 28th day of November, 1888, the following preamble and resolution were unanimously adopted: Whereas, it appears by a California Associated Press dispatch from New York, of November 26th, that "an Indianapolis special to the Herald says: 'It is almost certain that the Pacific Coast will have helped Harrison, but it is not certain as to whether he is handicapped by the railroad interests, and is not available. California, it is said, has her heart set on giving Harrison his Secretaryship, but there are good reasons to believe that she will not get a chance, as nearly all her public men are mixed up in corporations, and a clean, untrammeled man is needed who is not looking for'." Now, while disclaiming any desire upon the part of the Republican State Central Committee of California to interfere in any manner in the selection of Cabinet officers, or the Pacific Coast, we cannot but feel that the above statement is a gross misrepresentation of the character of the public men of this State; now, therefore,

Resolved, that the statement set forth in the above dispatch, "that the public men of this State are unavailable because of their connection with the railroad and other corporations," is untrue.

Resolved, that the special reference to the Hon. Morris M. Estee, that "he is handicapped by the railroad interests, and is not available," is a particularly gross libel upon the character of a gentleman whose entire public career is a complete refutation of such misrepresentations, and which statement we have no hesitation in pronouncing false.

Not a General Movement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The Sun prints interviews with leading Democrats of the G. A. R. in the course of the campaign. In review of these interviews it says a movement for the withdrawal of Democratic members of the G. A. R., on the ground that the organization is used to further the political ends of the Republican party, seems to meet with little sympathy outside of Indiana, where it began.

Hronek's Trial Drawing to a Close at Chicago—His Friends Issue Another Inflammatory Circular—More Testimony in the Opium Conspiracy Case.

By Telegraph to The Times.
 AUGUSTA (Ga.), Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The following letter was received by the Augusta National Exposition people today:

UNIONTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 23, 1888.
 Gentlemen: It gives me pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of November 14th inviting me, on behalf of the Board of Directors of the Augusta National Exposition, to visit the exposition and to meet the citizens of Georgia, who will be assembled there, at some time convenient to me. I notice also with interest the kindly terms in which, on behalf of your people, you extend and press upon me this attractive invitation. I assure you that if it were possible for me to leave home to make such a visit, it would give me great pleasure to observe, in connection with your exposition, the development of your State in the arts and manufactures. The commerce between our people, which is now so much facilitated by our great railroad systems, and the general diffusion of manufacturing interests throughout the States, will, I am sure, more closely unite, in interest and in sympathy, the people of our whole country. Will you please express to your Board of Directors, and also to the gentlemen who have kindly received the request presented by you, my sincere thanks for the invitation, and my regret that I am not able to enjoy the hospitality which they so cordially extend.

A BURNING MINE.

Calumet and Hecla Again on Fire—Eight Miners Perish.

CALUMET (Mich.), Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] A fire was discovered in the Calumet and Hecla mine this morning. A large party of men was working. The fire made rapid headway. All made a rush for the surface, but eight are missing. That they are dead is certain. The mine is completely covered with dense smoke. The fire looks worse than did the last, but being nearer the surface it is believed the damage financially will not be so great.

The company is making desperate efforts to control the flames and rescue the missing miners. The men are all Cornish. The scene about the mine is heartrending. The families of the men are all agonized at the extreme likelihood that the men will never come out alive, and to their grief and lamentations is added the most frantic confusion on the part of all except the trained employees of the company.

Christ Rule, one of the miners who was at work in the fourteen level of the shaft, says that about 11 o'clock last night he saw and smelled smoke. He at once called the attention of others to it. Charles S. Saxon and Henry Burkhart, who were thoroughly familiar with the Calumet branch of the mine, at once started up the ladder as far as the tenth level, and then went south to the main engine shaft, where they found the fire. They then crossed the No. 3 shaft, where they saw the shaft all ablaze. Burkhart at once went to the valve of the main engine shaft, and straightened out the hose and was ready to fight the fire at the risk of his life, but there was no water there. He says that, however, had there been water it would have helped matters none. Seeing this, the men came to the surface. Nothing is known of the whereabouts of the eight men who are missing. They were working 1700 feet deep in the main engine shaft, and it is supposed that, smelling smoke, they tried to escape, and were smothered. The fire is believed to be of incendiary origin. The men were in this portion of the mine at the time, but escaped.

It would be foolish to attempt to approximate the loss, as the fire is every way much worse than that of last year and liable to burn for months.

THE OPIUM PLOT.

One of the Conspirators Gives Damaging Testimony.

AUBURN (N. Y.), Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] Stone, a conspirator in the opium-smuggling case, continued his testimony today in the United States Court. He approached Collector Little on the subject of shifting the opium and substituting worthless stuff, about June 20th. He told him that Haines of Seattle and Gardner wanted it done. Haines would send a man on, and all he need do was to join adjoining his office, which was in a room adjoining his office.

"Little thought we ought to bribe Janitor Komiskey," said witness. "I assisted in shipping some of the opium. Spurious stuff was sent on from Chicago, and the transfer made at Minneapolis. I was subsequently arrested and taken to Buffalo."

Judge Brundage: When did you make up your mind to "swear?"

"When I learned Haines and Gardner intended to use my letters to get themselves out of trouble."

"You are under indictment for larceny, are you not?"

"I am."

"Is your office in an Ogdensburg public gambling-room?"

"It is not."

"J. J. Crowley, special Government agent at Chicago, told you the opium deal was worked in that city by Gardner and his confederates, is that not so?"

The evidence was all in for the defense at 10:30 o'clock tonight, when the court adjourned until tomorrow, when the summing up will begin.

ONE TROUBLE FOR HAINES.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Six suits for $200 each were begun against J. Charles Haines of Seattle, now on trial at Ogdensburg, N. Y., in the opium smuggling case. He was formerly Justice of the Peace here. The complainants allege that Haines collected and failed to account for the sums sued for.

THE NAVY.

Secretary Whitney's Annual Report—Some Progress Claimed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] Secretary Whitney has presented his annual report to the President. After giving a brief review of the condition of the navy as it will exist on the 4th day of March, 1889, in comparison with the same as it existed on the 4th day of March, 1885, and furnishing a list of armored vessels heretofore authorized by Congress, the Secretary says:

"So far as armored ships are concerned, the subject is yet to be treated in a broad way by the department and Congress. At the present time the conditions are such that everything necessary to first-class fighting ships can be produced and furnished to the department in this country. But this has never, until the present time, been true. Therefore consideration of the subject has been necessarily postponed by the department until the present time. The efforts of the department in ship construction have necessarily, since March, 1885, been devoted to unarmored vessels, and as the department is able to report that when the ships in course of construction and those authorized shall have been completed, the United States will rank second among nations in the possession of unarmored cruisers or commerce destroyers, having the highest characteristics, viz., of size, 3000 tons and upward, and possessing a speed of 19 knots and upward."

The Secretary quotes authorities as to the value of this class of vessels, and continues: "We cannot at present protect our coast, but we can return blow for blow, for we shall soon be in condition to launch a fleet of large and fast cruisers against the commerce of an enemy able to inflict the most serious and lasting injury thereon." "In regard to the production of power by machinery, the report says: 'The standard in 1885 was 10-horse power to a ton of machinery. All contracts since then have been upon the highest standard, and at the present time the department has reached a point where reliance can be placed upon it for the production of war vessels equal in character to those of any other country. It is gratifying to be able to report that, notwithstanding large expenditures for the new navy in the last three years, reductions in other directions have made the total expenses of the department less for the years ending June 30, 1884, the ordinary expenses of the department having been reduced over 20 per cent. The total expenditures of the department for the three years ending June 30, 1884, compared with the three years ending June 30, 1885, were $47,979,397 and $46,830,630 under the head of 'Coast and Harbor Defense Vessels.'"

"In the last annual report of the department considerations were given, leading to the conclusion that it would be unwise for the department to follow the course of the European powers in building unprotected torpedo boats, and in the present uncertainty regarding the practicability of submarine boats and while waiting practical trial of the dynamite gunboat, it has been deemed wise for the department to build the one light draught, heavily armored harbor defense floating battery or ram, for designs have been prepared, and the advertisements for this vessel call for submission of bids in February next, the characteristics to be found as stated in the table of armored vessels."

Considerable space is devoted to business methods and the introduction of system into the department. A chapter is devoted to the progress during the year at home and abroad, and in it is the statement that the necessity for an increased number of fast protected cruisers, whether for purposes of protecting or destroying commerce, or for service with the fleet as scouts, has been emphasized during the naval maneuvers of the year, and fully recognized by all naval powers. [But with the increase of the number of cruisers it has been recognized in view of the recent introduction of high explosive projectiles and increase of power and rapid fire and other guns, that renewed attention must be given to an armored fleet, and the prevailing opinion in England, France, Italy, Germany and Russia is strongly in favor of adding more armored ships to be built at an early date. In these new vessels the armor will be much more widely distributed, and will certainly protect battery and crew, as well as the water line and machinery. The destructiveness of high explosive shell fire against unprotected sides has emphasized the peculiar advantages of the monitor type for coast defense service.]

The Secretary considers the subjects of improved powder, projectiles and torpedo boats, saying in regard to the latter that recent naval maneuvers abroad show that the secret still be regarded as the most useful for coast and harbor defense.

The estimates for the navy and marine corps for the current fiscal year amount to $20,705,000. Those for the next fiscal year are $20,707,077. The appropriations for the current fiscal year are $19,943,451.

THE BOMB-TROWER.

Hronek's Trial at Chicago Drawing to a Close.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The trial of Hronek, the Anarchist, charged with conspiracy to murder officers of the law who secured the execution of the Haymarket Anarchists, was resumed this morning. No sensational features were developed, Hronek and others merely denying the truth of the evidence given for the prosecution.

Several other witnesses contradicted Hronek's evidence in minor points.

Capek declared the story of his intimacy and plotting with Hronek was false, and never had anything to do with dynamite or revenge.

A man employed as dredger testified to finding an empty bomb in the river where Hronek declared he threw some of those given him by Karait.

No important evidence was given at the afternoon session, and shortly before adjournment Assistant State's Attorney Elliott began his opening speech for the State.

ANOTHER CIRCULAR.

It is learned this evening that a new Anarchist circular is being distributed in various sections of the city. It is issued by the Arbeiter Bund, the same society that organized the "Sunday-schools" to teach children the doctrine of a nation. The circular is composed of the usual harangue about the workingman being trampled upon the dust, and urges him to assert his independence. Capital and all who control capital must be destroyed, and quickly, and the only efficacious method of removal is the one carried into execution by the "marxists," advocates of freedom who have their lives that their principles might be perpetuated. Believers are urged to join the society and contribute to the fund and also to the defense fund for the dynamiters now on trial.

Unlucky Theatrical Venture.

DIED LIKE A DOG.

The Execution of Myers at Placerville.

He Attempts to Imitate Anschlag, but Lacks the Nerve.

Carried Howling to the Scaffold and Hanged.

Other Coast Dispatches—Big Railway Undertaking—A Northern's Good Word for Los Angeles—Horticulturalists in Session—Murder in an Oregon Town.

By Telegram to The Times. PLACERVILLE, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] At 1:14 o'clock this afternoon another scene, such as gave this place its early-day name of "Hangtown," occurred, when John Henry Myers expired upon the scaffold his criminal participation in the murder of John Lowell on the 24th day of March last. The final refusal of Gov. Waterman to commute the death sentence of John Olsen and William Drager, who were convicted with Myers, to that of life imprisonment, created a general belief that the trio must hang today, but the right of appeal to the Supreme Court had not yet been exercised, and to this right G. J. Carpenter and C. F. Irwin finally resorted to save their clients, Olsen and Drager, from the scaffold today. Consequently Myers alone suffered the penalty of his crime.

Throughout the forenoon Myers lay on a couch in his cell in an apparently unconscious state, while in the adjoining cells Drager and Olsen cheerfully conversed with the death-watch and visitors. Their conduct has not materially changed since they received the news that they were not to be executed today, for they had previously made up their minds that hope was useless, and that they would face their death bravely in the Catholic faith, which was their religion. When it was evident this morning that Myers would have to be carried to the place of execution Drager said: "I have said from the beginning that Myers would have to be carried out, and would not meet death like a man. I and Olsen had determined to do it, and we asked Myers to read the Bible and do something for his soul, and be brave, but he threw away the German Bible we gave him, with the words, 'Damn it, everything goes to hell, and I might as well go to hell with it.'"

Myers had refused to eat anything since Tuesday evening. Wednesday night he spent in writing something in the way of confession, which was but a repetition of the facts stated in his affidavit used upon the hearing of the case for new trial in the cases of Drager and Olsen. Yesterday morning he arose early and in a light frame of mind. When the cells of the three condemned men were opened to be unlocked, Myers talked in a happy strain. Shortly he began to sob, and reclined on his couch, exclaiming: "My wife, my child!" Drager and Olsen went to his side, when he took Drager's hand and asked him to forgive him for setting him into trouble and for all the lies he had told about him. This done, he repeated this entreaty with Olsen.

His last hope gone. He then sank into a state of apparent unconsciousness until 12:15 o'clock today, when he aroused himself, called the watchman and asked for some milk, which was given him. Upon seeing Prentiss Carpenter, one of the attorneys in the case, he asked: "Is this Friday?" Upon being told that it was, he asked: "Must I be hung today?" Carpenter replied: "Yes, and every one predicts that you will die here today. Now, show them that you are a man. You have not an hour longer to live."

Hanging his head meditatively for an instant, he replied that he would, and commenced at once to arrange his toilet. Many thought that his condition was feigned, and that he only arose from it when he saw Carpenter, in the hope of receiving a reprieve, and that disappointed in this, it would be useless to further feign insensibility. At 12:55 o'clock the officers entered the jail and Deputy Sheriff W. H. Smith commenced reading the death warrant. During its reading Myers groaned audibly. 13:05 two officers took Myers by the arms to support him while he was being taken to the gallows, which was erected in the jail yard. Myers sobbed while he walked to the outer door of the jail, but when this was reached he commenced to groan and bawl, which he continued to do until he was taken to the gallows. A cap was drawn over his head. From there he had to be CARRIED TO THE GALLOW. There his ankles and knees had to be pinned while he was lying on the platform. Two strong men were ordered to hold him in an erect position while the body and arm straps were being adjusted. Before the noose was placed about his neck his chin was raised by the executioner, who admonished him to try and be a man, and asked him if he had anything to say. Between his loud cries he managed to say "No."

The noose was then tightly drawn about his neck, which choked his cries. The black cap was drawn over his face, and to the relief of the men supporting him the trap was sprung at 1:14 o'clock. His body was allowed to hang 17 minutes, when life was pronounced extinct by the physicians. His neck was broken by the fall. Fully 400 people witnessed the scene from the jail yard, and the neighboring roof tops and hillsides.

His attempt at suicide. For some days past inflamed spots have been noticeable on Myers's neck immediately in front of the larynx. The cause of this was explained by the finding of a slip of paper among his bed clothing this afternoon by the officers after his execution. It was made of strong strips torn from a cotton shirt belonging to him. He had evidently made at attempt at self-strangulation, but his courage failed.

Haggis & Carr Subdividing. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—Irwin C. Stump, private secretary of J. B. Haggis, today admitted the truth of the rumor that Haggis & Carr proposed to subdivide portions of their ranches, containing 400,000 acres, lying in Kern, Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties. It is understood that they will begin by subdividing 15,000 acres of land nearest the town of Bakersfield, Kern county, while it is reported that considerable subdivision of twice that amount of land in that vicinity were let four weeks ago. Land offices in Bakersfield, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Chicago will be opened for the sale of the land.

Repairing the Steamer Idaho. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—At the office of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company the following dispatch was received today from Capt. Hunter of the Idaho at Victoria, B. C.: "Idaho in dock—keel zone in several places. Bilges grazed only. Several pipes broken. Will require about one week for repairs."

In consequence of the damage the Idaho will miss one trip, and will connect with the steamer Unatilla, which leaves here next Friday.

A Sheriff's Mishap. PLACERVILLE, Nov. 30.—Sheriff Anderson met with a serious accident last night. While coming up the hill for grade after dark, and when near the top, his horse became frightened, shied and threw him out of the buggy. He remained unconscious for some time. He recovered sufficiently to be able to attend the execution of Myers, but is severely injured.

Deliberate Suicide. HELENA (Mont.), Nov. 30.—As a train pulled out from Wickes, a small station a few miles from Helena, this morning, an unknown man standing near the track deliberately crawled under the rear coach and laid his head on the rail, and before the train could stop the wheels had passed over his neck, severing the head from the body.

THE HORTICULTURISTS.

Interesting Discussion on Drainage Irrigation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The regular meeting of the State Horticultural Society was held today. Some large specimens of olives from the Santa Clara Valley were the object of much attention. The Regalis, or Queen, is said to be by far the largest variety of olive ever fruited in this State. The appointed subject for today was "Drainage and Irrigation," but as neither Leonard Coates of Napa nor W. W. Smith of Vacaville, who were to have read papers on the subject, were present, an informal discussion of the matter took place. Prof. Hilgard expressed the opinion that generally, in the foothills region, little irrigation is necessary. At the University's new agricultural experiment station, which has just been located near Jackson, Amador county, it is hoped to determine with just how little irrigation fruit can be successfully produced. He thought if some cheap system of sub-irrigation, either by piping or deep ditches, could be devised, it would be of great benefit to horticulturists, and do much to solve riparian troubles.

KILLED BY HIS COUSIN.

A Young Swede Shot by an Insane Kinsman. PORTLAND (Or.), Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] News of a murder near Scholl's Ferry, Washington county, is received. The body of Charles Munson, a Swede, was found in his barn today, pierced with two rifle bullets. The assassination, it is supposed, took place about Tuesday. Appearances indicated that Munson had been standing in his barn door, and was shot in the back by the assassin. The murder could not have been perpetrated for robbery, for a considerable sum of money was found in his pockets. In the cabin a silver watch was found under the pillow of his bed. Everything in the cabin was undisturbed. It is supposed that the murder was committed by a cousin of Munson named Dunstan, who has been twice an inmate of the insane asylum. Dunstan some months ago was heard to make threats against Munson's life. Great excitement prevails among the citizens over the cowardly murder.

NOTES OF PROGRESS.

Big Railway Enterprises—Northern Opinion of Los Angeles.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The extension of the northern division of the Southern Pacific southward from Tempeleto and the building of the Nevada, California and Oregon Railway northward through Lassen and Modoc counties, with a possible continuation to the Dalles, are the largest railway undertakings in actual operation at present, although there seems a strong probability of work being commenced shortly upon one of several lines with which it is proposed to connect Salt Lake City and Los Angeles.

San Millies, who returned from the latter city on Thanksgiving day, reports that the southern metropolis in a flourishing condition, with numerous buildings in the course of erection and the real-estate market steady. He says the city expects to benefit largely from the new cable system, which is being built with Chicago capital. Excursionists are beginning to arrive quite freely.

Oil on the Waters.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—A special bulletin of the branch hydrographic office at the Merchants' Exchange states that out of 92 reports from vessels that made experiments with oil to prevent heavy seas from breaking during severe storms, 89 are favorable, and not one unfavorable, the rest being merely non-committal. Capt. Springer of the pilot boat E. C. Knight, Capt. Wass of the American Schooner Morancy, Capt. Lancaster of the American gunboat Juno, and Capt. Morgan of the British ship Blackwater all coincide in their experiences of the beneficial results.

He Fenced Public Lands.

CAIRO (Nev.), Nov. 30.—The case of the United States Government vs. Bailey, charged with trespassing on the public domain, was decided today by Judge Sabin in the United States District Court. Bailey fenced a large tract of public land in Eureka county, but neglected entering it. M. G. Cavanaugh took up a homestead on the fenced tract. The Court decided that Bailey had no right to fence public land, and that Cavanaugh was entitled to an unobstructed right of way to his homestead. Bailey was fined $50 and sentenced to five days in the Eureka County Jail.

Mutiny on a Leaking Ship.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—The British ship Erata, which sailed for Great Britain with a cargo of grain, returned here on Thursday evening on account of having sprung a heavy leak in lat. 38° 30' north and long. 123° 30' west. When the crew discovered that she was making about three inches of water per hour they refused to proceed, and only when the ship's course was reversed was the crew induced to obey orders. Today the Erata was towed to Mission Rock, where her cargo will be partially discharged to discover the location of the leak, and after repairing damages she will resume her voyage.

A Road Agent's Confession.

FLORENCE (Ariz.), Nov. 30.—Henry Miller, alias Henry Brown, suspected of stage robbery, and now in jail at this place, made a full confession this morning of his guilt, saying that he was inspired by the success of others in that line in the Territory and in California. He told where he hid his gun and mules. He robbed Dr. J. M. H. and the down stage to Casa Grande last Friday afternoon, and rifled the mail and express.

Wants Heavy Damages.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—"Dr." Frank Rame was arrested some weeks ago on a charge of seeking to abduct little Florence Blythe, the claimant to the Blythe estate. He was tried and acquitted. His apprehension was due to the efforts, it has been alleged, of W. H. Hart and James Crisp Perry. He has brought suit against them for $50,000. Aside from this he wants $150 for counsel fees.

Prize-fight in Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—The fight between Joe Soto, the well-known San Francisco feather-weight, and Joe Akers, at the Acme Athletic rooms, Oakland, tonight, was declared a draw at the end of the ninth round. Soto was badly punished.

Burst a Flood Vessel.

VALLEJO, Nov. 30.—William Handley, a rigger in the navy-yard, fell down stairs with a lamp in his hand last night. He tried to save the lamp, and in doing so fell on his head and burst a blood vessel, from the effects of which he died today.

British Columbia Justice.

VICTORIA (B. C.), Nov. 30.—Dubois, the bogus gold operator, was given three years in the penitentiary today, and Kanaka Joe, for murdering his squaw, was given 15 years.

Saved His Neck.

WALLA WALLA (Wash.), Nov. 30.—The jury in the case of Blye, who killed both the Moritz brothers at Washtania Lake last summer, brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree.

ROCHESTER (N. Y.), Nov. 30.—The report last night that a little hamlet near Olean had been captured by tramps proves unfounded.

THEIR YEAR'S WORK.

The Interstate Commission's Report.

Hard Times Among the Railways Not Due to the Act.

But to the Rascally Management of Stock Manipulators.

The System of "Meeting" Cuts Condemned—Railways Urged to Establish Better Relations Among Themselves—Suggestions as to the Transportation of Immigrants.

By Telegram to The Times. WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission is now in type. From it the following is taken:

From the best information now available, the railroad mileage of the country on the 30th of June, 1888, is estimated at 152,781, of which 2312 miles had been completed and brought into operation within six months preceding that day. A summary is made of the formal complaints. Of 107 cases submitted, 50 have been decided, 6 are not yet decided, in 9 the hearing is not completed, 23 were withdrawn or settled, 10 were suspended by request, and 9 are assigned for hearing.

In the section of the country north of the Potomac and Ohio and east of the Missouri, cases in which a greater charge is made for shorter transportation are few, and their circumstances are such that the complaint is not of great merit, that they operate oppressively. With some exceptions, resulting from ocean competition, the rule of the short-haul provision of the law has been put in force upon the transcontinental roads, where its operation and effect can be observed under what now appear to be favorable conditions. In the Southern and Southwestern States, the commission has had reason to think that carriers were moving more slowly in bringing their tariffs into conformity with the general statutory law than in other sections. Not being satisfied that this duty had been sufficiently apprehended and observed, the commission has ordered an investigation to be made of the whole subject.

EFFECTS OF THE ACT.

The report then takes up the subject of the effect of the Interstate Commerce Act upon common carriers, and says: "Although some railroad managers have declared that it has had a damaging effect, the commission is possessed of no evidence showing that the general result has been otherwise than beneficial. Railroad business has suffered in the past year, not because of the Interstate Commerce Act, but owing to strikes, new parallel lines and rate wars." With reference to the rate wars in the Northwest and among the trunk lines during the year the report says: "As is commonly the case in rate wars, the trunk lines' difficulties resulted from suspicious on the part of the carriers respectively that their competitors were cutting rates, and that reductions were made to recover the freight, which the parties to the agreement claimed was their due, but which they were not getting because of the secret cutting by others. Efforts of the commission to obtain evidence of the practices suspected have been wholly ineffective, and the war of rates proceeds without the possibility of external interference to bring it to an end." The making of unreasonably low rates, the report intimates, is often for STOCK-JOBBER PURPOSES or to compel the purchase of a road by competing lines. Persons having control of railroads may deliberately make insufficient rates in the expectation of profits to be derived from the sale of the road to a competitor. Every case of war may be regarded as one of this character. Present profits are sacrificed on the calculation that by crippling a rival, or forcing an increase in rates, some loss on some matter of contention, the loss will, in time, be more than made up. In a majority of such cases the losses exceed the gains. The rate has not been ordered by the commission any power to order any increase of rates which it can see are not remunerative. In general, therefore, it may be said that while railroad managers possess the power to destroy their competitors, only of their rivals, but of their own stockholders, they will recklessly make rates that lead to bankruptcy. The question often comes of high rates, whether it is wiser to insist on reduced rates of a competitor or let the business go. Yet the decision of this question is left by important lines in the hands of subordinates who have no other power than to punish the subject beyond the rule that every cut must be promptly "met." Nothing seems more surprising than the fact that a railroad manager will not hesitate to make a large concession of revenue to a competitor, which he publicly charges, nor furnish evidence upon which others may do so, will nevertheless sacrifice for his shareholders millions of revenue to punish a rival.

UNITY OF RAILROAD INTERESTS. It is reasonable to expect that the carriers of the country will, where practicable, make such joint arrangements that the public shall find an arrangement with one adequate for the purpose of any single transaction. There should be some means of enforcing the obligations, moral or legal, that would grow out of such arrangements. The tendency among railroads seems likely to be in the direction of consolidation as the only means of mutual protection against rate wars. But anything equivalent to the creation now of what are technically denominated as "trusts" has hardly been supposed possible. Even the making of a trust by the carriers at pleasure, there is lacking a concentration of authority. Railroads can do much toward better relations with the public and do so by first establishing better relations among themselves. The need of this is very imperative. In all cutting of rates the party beginning it makes charges or insinuations against its competitors. The carriers cutting rates are not to be blamed. An impartial observer is compelled to say that such methods do not belong to the present age. While the commission is not at this time prepared to recommend general legislation toward the establishment and promotion of relations between carriers that shall better observe the public interests than those which are now common, it nevertheless looks forward to the possibility of something of that nature becoming at some time imperative unless great improvement in existing conditions is voluntarily inaugurated.

IMMIGRANT TRANSPORTATION

is considered, and various facts stated which were developed upon the two investigations held in New York city. In view of all the circumstances, the commission recommends a reception place larger than Castle Garden, from which those not legitimately connected with immigrant transportation should be excluded. The interior lines should have agents there on an equal footing. The payment of commissions for routing immigrants, and for procuring shipment of immigrants from foreign countries should be declared illegal, and be made punishable. The commission should have power to fix immigrant fares. These objects cannot be fully accomplished except by the Federal Government taking complete control of the whole subject.

OTHER TOPICS. The subject of over capitalization is recognized as exceedingly important, but it is believed that it can only be handled gradually and in detail. There are provisions against false billing, classifications, weighing, or reporting weight, or unreasonable preference or advantage. The commission thinks that the penal provisions against wrongs of this nature should embrace also the owners of the property, or any party acting for the owner or consignee of the property who shall be a party to any such unlawful conduct. The commission suggests that questions thus raised be settled by express provision. Another question of construction ought also to be settled by legislation, in order to take away the pretense on which certain through lines are now claimed to be local lines in fact and through lines only in appearance. The commission thinks that the line is in fact a through line by reason of ownership by a corporation controlling it, it ought not to be at liberty to make through rates, or to decline to make them at pleasure. The commission favors joint tariffs and through rates, and recommends that carriers engaged independently in interstate traffic on rivers, lakes and other navigable waters of the country, be upon the same footing with interstate carriers by rail.
